Good Show at the Grand.

The Grand can boast of an excellent bill for the first two nights of the present week. Last night the management presented two very high class acts. Clayton Crouch, a black face comedian, presented an excellent monologue while Palmer and Larue a musical team delighted the audience with their high class act. Another pleasing feature of the bill is the singing of Miss Birdie Wollstein, whose vocal selection charmed her hearers. Two excellent motion pictures completed one of the most meritorious bills ever presented to the patrons of the popular play-house.
